CORRECTION: K. C. Steak adverdtised by Horton should be 35 cents instead of 20 cents per pound.

Grenada friends will regret to hear of the death today of Mr. J. F. Provine, of Coffeeville.

This is one election that I was not a Jonah in. Nobody can accuse me of cursing anyone with my editorial support.

We have added our first Venezuelian subscriber, Bob Caruthers, brother of Dr. Sam Caruthers, who is now visiting in the States on vacation from his duties with General Electric Company.

The stork certainly got into high gear this week. Somebody said they saw him drinking a full pint of skocat trying to get his nerves back in shape.

The Corner Drug Store is haying its ceiling painted. Thus Grenada Grows.

But, talking about Grenada growing, the stork is largely responsible this week. The unusual thing is that so many girl babies came. This must indicate that the war will be short.

With naval vessels being launched more rapidly than scheduled the Navy needs lots of men. An intensive recruiting campaign will begin next week. The Navy offers many fine opportunities to young men. The GCW expects to help all it can in the campaign.

According to Roy Doak, Chairman of the County Savings Bonds and Stamps Committee, sales of these securities are mighty slow. If we understand the campaign it is an effort on the part of the government to get its securities scattered as widely as possible. Everyone knows that the government could borrow all the money it needs from banks and other large bidders of capital.

Inevitably a depression, perhaps more serious than the last one, will follow the closing of armament plants and the demobilization of the army. Therefore, it behooves the individual, who is now earing big money, to lay some of it away in a safe place, preferably in Defense Bonds and Stamps

Every wage earner should, if possible, lay away every week or every month a definite percentage of his earnings by buying these securities from the nearest bank or postoffice

By using this regular method of saving money, it will surprise an individual how much he or she will have salted away in a short time.

Then, too, EVERYONE, big or little, should have a stake in this national defense program, so vital to every individual.

Jimmie Arrington is a worse predicter than I used to be. Last week he headlined his paper, "Collins Will Vote For Doxey." This week, the county went decisively for Collins.

Aint they sweet.

Grandpaw and Grandmaw Kirk are as proud of that new grandbaby as a monkey would be with three tails.

Well, the senotorial dog fight is over. Nobody knows how the GCW stood except thru the phrase, often repeated, "Me and the GCW".

Our cotton acreage has neither increased now decreased in the past week. In fac it never changed except in the imagination of the AAA.

Congratulations to the winner; condolence to the loser. And much obliged to both for a good deal of advertising.

Our good friends and subscribers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crump, of Collins, visited here and at the Crump old place at Oxberry, as well as at Duck Hill, over the week-end. Mr. Crump certainly holds up well.

The U. S. Navy: America's First Line of Defense, and, at present, the only line of defense.

Jimmie Arrington's circulation certainly grew last week. We understand that two hundred thousand copies of his sheet were printed and circulated in the interest of Wall Doxey.. His headline was "Collins Will Vote For Doxey", Collins being his town.

THREE FORMER GRENADA PEOPLE KILLED IN DELTA

Of the four persons killed when the Moore car crashed by a Y. & M. V. train near Clarksdale Monday afternoon, were three former Grenada people, Mrs. L. G. Moore, her daughter, Miss Eloise Moore and her son, James F. Moore.

Eugene W. Atkinson Buried At Sparta Saturday

Eugene Walter Atkinson, better known as "Jack," who was killed early last Thursday morning in Marks by Johnnie Kehoe, was buried at Sparta cemetery, six miles south of Holcomb, Grenada, County, Saturday, September 20, 1941.

Mr. Atkinson was born on June 29, 1903 and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Atkinson, Sr., livelong residents of District Five, in the hills above Leflore. Since the age of fourteen, he has been a member of the Sparta (Methodist) Church. He was a graduate of Raymond High School and attended Mississippi State College one term. He worked in Memphis for several years, but moved back to his old home where he operated a retail store. More recently he has been salesman for The Art Quantrell Chevrolet Company in Grenada. According to Mr. Quantrell, he never had a more reliable, energetic employee and one whom he would trust to operate the business while the owner was called away from town.

Mr. Atkinson and Miss Betty Addy Scales were married on August 7, 1926, and to this union two little sons were born. Though working in Grenada, Mr. Atkinson and his family still lived in their home near Leflore.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning by Rev. A. W. Bailey, pastor of Sparta Church and Dr. W. H. Marlon, a Presbyterian minister of Greenwood.

His cousins, Messrs. Jimmie Landers, Clarence Head, Walter Atkinson, C. B. Johnson, Milton Nolley and Willie Scott, were the active pallbearers. Honoray pallbearers included Messrs H. D. Horn, Craige Mullin, Fulton McRee, Paul Hayden, S. C. Mims, Art Quantrell and Jim Elliott.

Surviving him are his widow, two sons, Jackie and Roby; his mother, Mrs. E. L. Atkinson, Sr.; one brother, E. L. Atkinson, and three sisters, Mrs. Bryan Scott and Misses Loree and Ethel Atkinson.

To the sorrowful ones, we extend our sympathy.

The Grenada Churches

By HERBERT B. ALLEN

In the First Presbyterian Church last Sunday, Mr. C. A. Pharr, spoke on what he described as the most beautiful word in the Bible. When he announced his topic many persons in the congregation must have made an immediate attempt to guess what the selected word would be. My guess was the word "love," but when he had eliminated several others, he spoke on "forgiveness" and made out a very strong case for his choice.

Forgiveness in itself is the very thought and action around which Christianity is centered. Forgiveness of sin is the path to salvation—and without the love of God for the erring, but repentant person, forgiveness would be impossible.

Several examples of forgiveness, familiar to everyone, were mentioned in the sermon; the prodizal son, the thief of the cross, the instance of Simon Peter, and of the sinning woman.

Mr. Pharr asserted that forgiveness is the costliest word in the Bible, and proved this by citing the cost of forgiveness to God. Before forgiveness could be pronounced on His people, Christ had to die on the cross of Calvary.

It naturally follows that forgiveness is equally costly in our personal, and particularly in our family difficulties. But, just as the effect of God's forgiveness made possible a brighter and happier prospect for us—so forgiveness no matter how difficult for the individuals concerned makes life brighter and happier within families afflicted by discord and unhappiness.

In a previous sermon, Mr. Pharr declared that sin is the saddest word in the Bible. The two sermons, on sin, and on forgiveness have a very practical application to the lives of all of us. For summing up the two sermons, Mr. Pharr described sin as the primary cause of our troubles in this world; and that forgiveness cancels the effects of our sinful actions.

As in all of Mr. Pharr's practical sermons, the application of his teaching to our personal lives, in the spirit of faith, hope, and charity, would do all of us a degree of good which could only be measured after having put the truths he advocated into practical application.

The ladies of the Presbyterian Church always provide a splendid atmosphere in which to worship. A colorful arrangement of brilliant autumn flowers enhanced the appearance of the pulpit, and the simply gowned ladies choir delight with their uniformly fine singing. The playing of Mrs. Calhoun during the offertory, and a pleasingly rendered solo by Mrs. E. R Pleasants contributed to a gratifying hour of worship.

District Farm Bureau Meeting Held Monday

A district Farm Bureau meeting was held at the Courthouse this week. Farm leaders from Carroll, Montgomery, Calhoun, Grenada and Montgomery counties attended the meeting to discuss the accomplishments of our State Farm Bureau during the past year and to make plans for next year's program.

Mr. Ransom Aldrich, State Farm Bureau president, presided at the meeting. Other state leaders attending the meeting were Owen Cooper, Farm Bureau Organization Specialist, T. M. Patterson, State AAA Administrator, and H. S. Johnson, Extension Rural Organization Specialist.

Mr. Aldrich stated that during the past year our State and National Farm Bureau obtained the Parity Loan for cotton which insures farmers a parity price for cotton. The program for 1942 includes making parity prices permanent, priorities for farm machinery and implements, and to make plans to stablize farm conditions after the end of the present war, and to develop diversified farm programs.

Grenada farmer leaders attending the meeting were: President Groce Carver, C. C. Mullen, J. L. Elliott, A. W. Mullen, W. D. Holman, Mrs. W. D Holman, G. W. Organ, J. G. Shaw, J. B. Keeton, J. M. Cooley, Cary Cook, P. H. Willis, R. T. Suggs, Harvey Clark, W. N. Hayward, Geo. F. Kraft, E. L. Boteler, Mrs. W. H. Saunders, W. H. Saunders, J. L. Mitchell, Johnathon Thomas, A. A. Allison, E. E. Pyron, M. S. Tilghman, and Will Leigh.

President Groce Carver stated that the Farm Bureau Parity Program had made our cotton worth approximately $26.00 more per bale and that all farmers, both landlords and tenants should become members of our county Farm Bureau to give it the strength to develop better farm programs.

A membership campaign was begun and will close with a "victory rally" on October 2nd. Mr. Geo. F. Kraft offers a registered Jersey bull to the farm leader securing the most members.

Mr. E. S. Davis, manager of our County Cooperative has received carlot shipments of winter cover crop seeds and lime fertilizer to help our farmers earn their soil building payments and enrich their soils

Ernest Linwood Betz Died Here Monday Noon

Death ended the long suffering of Mr. Ernest Linwood Betz in his home in Grenada at noon on Monday, September 22, 1941.

He was born in Clinton, Louisiana on March 5, 1880 and, therefore, was over 61 years of age. Twenty odd years ago, he and Miss Kate Weeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Weeks, were married, since which time they have lived most of the time in Grenada. For a number of years, ill health has restrained his activities. He was a very kindly man, and always took great interest, if in a quiet way, in civic and community affairs. He was a good husband, an indulgent father and a useful citizen. What more can be said?

Being a member of the First Baptist Church, the funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. E. Wiley who was assisted by Rev. E. R. Henderson, pastor of the Central Baptist Church. Burial was had at Woodlawn Memorial Park in Grenada. The many friends and neighbors of the deceased and of members of the family, and the beautiful floral tributes spoke more clearly than words how Grenada people regarded the deceased and family

Pallbearers were Messrs. L. E. Lester, Charles Brewer, Earl Hallam, Peyton Irby, J. C. Hathorn, and H. D. Horn.

Surviving Mr. Betz are his widow Mrs. Kathryn Weeks Betz; five children, Mesdames C. Rel Hughes and Fletcher Klinke, Miss Maydell Betz and E. L. Betz, Jr., all of Memphis and Mrs. J. B. Long, of Alexandria City, Ala., Miss Lovie Betz, a sister, and Mr. Howard Betz, a brother, both of Baton Rouge, La., also survive.

Sympathy is extended members of the deceased's family.

ALL SAINTS' AUXILIARY

All Saints' Auxiliary met last Monday at 3:30 p. m. at the church for the regular monthly program.

The united movement of the church's youth, our subject for September, was ably discussed by Mrs. D. S. Wheatley, Diocesan Secretary of Christian Education. Miss Winifred Saunders spoke briefly of what impressed her at Camp Bratton-Green, our young peoples' camp and training school.

There was a splendid attendance and much interest was manifested.

All Saints' Auxiliary will attend corporate communion on Monday morning, September 29, at 10 o'clock in the morning. United Thank Offering will be made at this time.

NOTES TAKEN ON A TRIP IN THE COUNTRY ROUNDABOUT

In general, a survey including representative sections of all parts of the county reveals that the cotton crop is proper but the feed crop is good. In fields where cotton has been properly cultivated and kept free of grass, and where the land is fairly good, a finer crop awaits the pickers. But, if the farmer let his cotton get belly deep in grass and weeds, he might as well get out the mowing machine as his cotton sack.

DEFENSE BONDS SALES CHAIRMAN REPORTS SLOW SALES

News Obtained On Last Sunday Afternoon

Traveling out in Beat Four toward Pearidge, the memory of Col. Hick Barksdale came to mind. It was his ambition to drive his old gray mare and buggy on his own land from his home near Hardy to the river bridge. Before he died, his holdings extended to within about a mile of the river.

Other memories came as a result of reflection on conditions when I was a boy. Following the road to Cascilla, or rather to the Tallahatchie county line, just a few men owned all the land: Mr. Weeks, Col. Barksdale, R. W. Mullin, Dr. Martin, R. W. Jones, Rush Baker, Dr. McSwine, the Winters and the Bridgers. Some of this land is still being held by the owners; most of it has changed hands, or is in imminent danger of changing hands. Time moves on.

In those days Mr. "Rollie" Jones, father of Rollie Jones, of Lula, and Miss Elizabeth Jones, of Grenada, was the largest producer of cotton in the county. He came to town Saturday afternoon and went back Monday morning, to spend the entire week, with that exception, "on the job."

The present magnificent "dump" which supports 51 paved highway, then was more or less a trail, subject to overflow with a small rise of the river; finally a dump covered with a plank road was built, and this was the first great road improvement in Grenada county; later the dump was raised and graveled. Today it is above any conceivable overflow.

During high water, folks of that section, wishing to get to town, went to the flag stop at Riverdale and caught the train. As far back as we can remember the rails of the I. C. have never been covered with overflow.

I well remember that Bob Hall and I considered ourselves quite privileged characters to be permitted by Mr. R. W. Mullin to fish in his artificial lake—the first one ever built in the county, so far as we know. Also remember how fastidious Mr. Mullin was in his personal appearance.

The Mullin old home, restored by its present owners, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Meek, was when built and continues to be the most massive and magnificent brick home in Grenada County.

Old Troy, the R. W. Jones home, a huge frame structure occupying a commanding site about half a mile from the road is perhaps the second most substantial home in the county. It is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Saunders.

Mt. Lore, occupying another commanding site on a bluff on Baker Creek, is in fine state of preservation, and occupies the site of the original Baker home erected 100 years ago.

Our first stop was at "Miss" Rosa Thomason's home where, as usual, we received a cordial welcome. In spite of her 82 years, she is as spry as a cricket and can and does perform more work than any of her children. Hard work is her formula for continued health and longevity.

"Miss" Rosa is never happier than when doing for what she navely calls the "old folks", and for her children, grandchildren and for her neighbors; but "all this government business" has about ruined the country.

Left a widow with seven small children nearly 40 years ago, she has kept her property intact and out of debt and has reared a fine set of children who, in turn, have many fine children of their own.

Next time out there we are going to stop and see Jim, but that time, we were pressed for time. "Granny," in addition to her many other duties rubs Jim twice a day for his severe case of neuritis.

Going on toward the north, we slipped through a small segment of the free state, but did not pause.

Passed by the Church of God building, which, like most houses in that vicinity has REA current.

According to reliable reports at Pearidge, Cousin Ira spent a day or so there this month, and was surely there Tuesday of this week to help hold the election.

Letting George Do It

U. S. Navy

(Mrs. W. W. W.)

A wonderful response by the Mississippi Press was recorded at Jackson, Miss., on Monday of this week, when, in response to an invitation from an executive of the national advertising firm of Baton, Burton, Durstine and Osborne, Inc., they assembled at the Robert E. Lee Hotel, for a luncheon-lecture; the guest speakers being Commander Walton, U. S. Navy and a representative of the B. B. and O. Co. Their mission being the inaugurating in the State of an advertising campaign through the newspapers of the state to help fill the rangs of the Navy.

President McCorkle of Mississippi Press, introduced the speakers after his brief greeting, turning the meeting over to them.

The theme of the meeting was the seriousness of the lack of enlistment in the Navy and this with its serious implications was brought to the Press by a complete stating of facts which this country, the United States of America, is face to face with today.

As a powerful Nation, living among the nations of the world, many of whom are more actively engaged in warfare than we of America, are, we need a two-ocean Navy.

Let me tell you as briefly as possible, of this meeting held in Jackson on Monday.

We were told that the armament program, that is, the construction of warships, tanks, air planes and other equipment being turned out, ready for action, is ahead of schedule and that the recruiting of man power is not keeping pace with this magnidcent program.

The Navy of the United States is one of the FINEST NAVIES ON EARTH, and it is to be among the honored of all Americans, to be in the American Navy.

Here is what Secretary of U. S. Navy Frank Knox, said: "The Navy is more than battleships, cruisers, destroyers—more than the crews to man them. It's a far flung network of land bases for ships and planes . . . for tankers, transports and hospital ships; its dry docks, wharves, machine shops ramps, anchorage, barracks and fuel tanks.

It's a vast fleet of merchant ships carrying supplies throughout the world. It's a great system of factories, steel mills, arsenals and ordinance depots; its air power . . . with thousands of pilots and ten times as many skilled mechanics to keep them flying. It's more than a score of the finest training schools in the world."

The above is a paragraph taken from a message to young America from the Secretary of the U. S. Navy, Hon. Frank Knox. He knows our assets. He knows our needs!!

The U. S. Navy is willing and ready to give men training worth $1,500.00 in their first year, teaching them to be expert in the trade or vocation of their choice, plus their keep, plus clothing and bedding, valued at $118.00 given the day of their entrance into the Navy. When they enlist, should they be rated an apprentice seaman, their salary for the first four months will be $21.00 per month. In four months they will begin to earn $36.00 per month as second-class seaman. In eight months they will receive $54.00. In one year, as first-class seaman, earnings are $60.00, as petty officer, 3rd class. In 21 months one can be earning $72.00 as petty officer 2nd class. In 2½ years one can earn as petty officer, 1st class, the salary of $84.00. In 4½ years as chief petty officer. Acting Dept., a salary of $99.0 is paid, and in 5½ years a man can be earning $126.00 as Chief Petty Officer, Permanent Officer.

Young men can enlist in the Active Naval Reserve or the Regular Navy. Each offer special advantages The Navy represents a body of men assembled through selective recruiting. A review of the past recruiting program shows only one out of five is selected from the applicants. There are two prime factors, character and alertness necessary, when an applicant is under consideration for enlistment. Should a boy possess these two splendid attributes, and health, he would be an ideal recruit.

In next week's issue of the Grenada County Weekly, a large advertisement for the Navy will appear; more such advertisements will appear throughout the month of October. We urge every man and woman to read this splendid appeal. It is a call to America by the Navy!

Anyone reading the Navy advertisement in this paper, and are interested in securing further information, call at the Grenada Recruiting office, located in the Grenada Postoffice, or write for booklet "Everything You Want to Know About Life in the U. S. Navy." Grenada County Weekly office, Navy Editor will mail it to you at once.

This is your chance to become a trained American instead of remaining an untrained one.

UNDER THE MAGNOLIA TREE

By Herbert B. Allen

Let us take a look at that strange land we call Turkey—where the Turks do all the work, and the Greeks make all the money. The poor Turks know nothing but trouble in this world. They have had a rough and rocky history, and there are signs abroad that it is about to become increasingly rocky in the next few weeks.

What are the Turks really like? Turkish men are dirty, lazy proud, ignorant, cruel and fanatical. With regard to Turkish women—you have seen the alluring pictures on advertisements of cigarettes which use a blend of Turgkish tobacco.

Fatima is usually depicted as an attractive brunette with a bewitching face. Her figure is of the willowy, sinuous sort, accented by that langourous grace supposed to feature all oriental dancers. That is what the pictures show. But in real life, Fatima is the most ugly, and the most unshapely creature to be found in the feminine world.

Years ago the Turkish Sultans, and wealthy Turks, went in for buying girls from a small region in eastern Turkey that was noted for pretty girls, and the beautiful Circassian walnut wood used in fine furniture. Murderous raids on the Armenian villages used to produce some lovely looking daughters of the Christian victims. But as for finding a pretty woman in Turkey, one is seldom to be seen.

In some Mohammedan countries, such as India, the younger women are really pretty, possessing particularly luminous, soft dark eyes. But the veils of the Turkish women were a great boon to the men, for the veils had many a nightmare. That is all I know of Turkish women, for I never knew one personally in the Near E. , and never met a Turkish family in New York or London. The hideous elderly gipsy women are as close to the Turkish as anything to be seen in this country.

That is one side of the Turks, a little exaggerated perhaps, but essentially true. The other side is considerably more interesting at the present time. Personally I rate Turkey among the three bravest nations in the world. First come the Scotch—second the Turkish—and third the Russians. Not only are the soldiers of these countries noted for remarkable personal courage; but they can all endure terrible hardships without losing their MORALE. The Japanese are omitted from this group because it is white soldiers I am comparing.

Americans recently had an opportunity to learn of the fighting qualities of the Greeks, and their demonstration of courage and fortitude was magnificent. The fact that the Turks can push the Greeks around, and make them yell "Uncle" gives a fair idea of Turkish military valor.

Talk about jumping from the frying pan into the fire! The Turks today are in the midst of four evils, rather than a mere two! Just a few months ago Turkey had but one powerful enemy on her borders, for Germany had invaded Bulgaria and Nazi divisions were massed across the border from Turkish soil. France was occupying Syria on the southern border—and France was a conquered nation. Russia, on the eastern border, was an inactive ally of Germany.

Now the picture has changed greatly, Germany is still a menace across the Bulgarian border. Germany and Italy both occupy islands close to the Turkish coast from which they may readily bomb Turkey. Russia has become an ally of Britain. And Britain now occupies Syria, to the south. So both Britain and Russia are now in the same position to bomb Turkey, that the Germans and Italians are.

Although Turkey would prefer to be left in peace, the course of the war now points to Turkish participation in the near future, no matter how reluctant the Turks may be to fight a war in which they have everything to lose, and nothing to gain.

Of recent years Turkey has done much of her trading in Germany on a barter basis. Being a very backward agricultural country, the Turks need agricultual machinery, industrial equipment, power plants finance for railroads and highways, and all of the innumerable articles needed to modernize the country.

None of the things Turkey wants will come to her through being allied with either side in the conflict. But the decision for war or peace will not rest in Turkish hands. The history of Poland, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, Yugo-Slavia, Rumania, Bulgaria and Greece clearly indicates that Hitler will make up Turkey's mind for her when war comes.

The Baku oil fields of Russia are the vital points which both Russia and British strategy seek to protect. Unfortunately for Turkey, she is geographically situated in the path that lies between Germany and her desperate need for oil. Russia and Britain will take the same course in Turkey that was necessary in Iran (Persia) if that course is forced upon them by German action against Turkey. The allies have no military alternative that promises any degree of successful defense of the oil regions.

Turkey therefore does not have any choice between two fates. If she sides with Germany, she can receive military supplies from Germany much faster than she could from the allies. Allied aid to Turkey would have to originate in the United States. To reach Turkey munitions must cross the South Atlantic Ocean, move up the Indian Ocean, through the Red Sea and Suez Canal, and thence for a short distance through the submarine infested Mediterranean Sea to their destination.

Turks today may well ask themselves, "Will there be anything left of us, and of our army, if we join sides? If we fight with Germany, or with the Allies, will anything remain of Turkey excepting a memory, when the fighting is over" For Turkey it looks to be very much a case of, "Heads you win, tails we lose!"

When one of the independent nations of the world is faced with such a desperate situation, not of its own making, it is high time that sober opinion in the United States takes careful stock of the present and the immediate future and look reality right in the eye. One thing is certain: nothing is to be gained by imitating an ostrich and burying our heads in the sand, trusting and praying that the efforts of other nations will eventually save civilization for the world.

Our liberties were not gained by the bloodshed of other nations. Our liberties will not be retained by the bloodshed of other nations. Had the men of Washington's time listened to such old women as Senator Wheeler, and to traitors such as the so called colonel who was recently kicked out of the United States Army, the colonies would never have attained the freedom under which the United States developed and prospered.

Surely the United States can do more toward the preservation of Christian civilization in the world that to engage in a calm frenzy of making snowballs for the other boys to throw at the greatest menace to liberty that has arisen in modern history.

FROM A REBEL HILL TOP

By The Grenadier

Because of the nature of last week's article on "Hitler, Napoleon and God," the irrepressible Whyte Whitaker suggested in the Editor's column, that I might make a good preacher. Whyte would like all of his multitude of friends to make an easy living, but he well knows that the ministry is no bed of roses.

Just place yourself in the position of a minister commencing to prepare a sermon. He knows what is going on in his community as well as other informed persons. But custom in the ministry requires that sermons must apply generally to all members of the congregation. That custom is a life saver for those individuals in the audience to whom the minister would greatly enjoy addressing some more pertinent remarks.

Like all other organizations, churches must be financed; and those finances are usually influenced by some gentlemen in the congregation whom no minister could afford to antagonize. The ministry is also a profession in which the minister must earn his living, and a too zealous minister would find more than a little difficulty in finding desirable new churches every month. Therefore, some concessions must be made to existing conditions, and a minister must carry on as best he can under the limitations imposed on him by the outside world.

Because I have a habit of dealing forcefully with those conditions which I consider require a drastic remedy, I would be automatically disqualified from preaching. And having been an army officer from my eighteenth year, I often swear like a trooper. My Uncle Will Hoffa, a splendid Christian character, gently reproves me on that score—but when aroused I just naturally have recourse to unconventional adjectives.

One evening last week a Grenada lady was reminiscing about her childhood days. She was gratefully acknowledging her indebtedness to her parents for her training she had received as a girl, and no doubt her emotions were reflected in the hearts of many in her audience.

Having been raised among members of the Society of Friends one of the most earnest and devout sects in Protestantism, my views on religion are just as radical as are my opinions on most other subjects. Members of the Society of Friends take their religion very seriously. They will not tolerate the abuse of membership in their congregations.

For example, a Friend may not exercise the privilege of professing one thing, and then deliberately practicing something entirely different. Such examples exercise an unwholesome influence upon both church going and non-church going persons; and they are particularly conspicuous to alert minded young people.

Any conduct in the nature of mockery of Christian teachings and ethics is severely dealt with in the Society of Friends. It is a demonstrated fact that the necessity for practicing Christian honesty in daily social and business dealings conduces to material, as well as the spiritual, welfare of the Society of Friends. There is no poverty among Friends, and I never saw one in court.

Though they are few in numbers, the Society of Friends include among their members a former President of the United States, and a former President of the nation's largest business organization, the United States Steel Corporation. Therefore a man whose business practices are governed by Christian honesty and integrity is at absolutely no disadvantage in the world of affairs.

As a matter of every day common sense, if the Christian religion were a system of belief that is practical on one day in the week, and impractical on six days in the week—then the Christian religion would be nothing but a pious farce.

While I cannot remember a newspaperman ever taking up preaching, if one did carry both his newspaper training, and his nose for news, into the ministry, and from the pulpit, applied to his findings the most pertinent and most applicable chapters in the old and new Testaments—well, he would create a sensation in that community comparable to a Nazi bombing raid!

But to expect that such a sermon would have any practical results, excepting the eviction of the preacher, would be to expect the impossible. A careful reading of the four gospels will clearly reveal where Christ met his chief opposition during his three years of preaching. It was often necessary for him to leave town by some route other than along the main street. It would be too much to expect human efforts to attain results among those classes which failed to respond to the Master's persuasion.

Personally I have met many persons in Grenada County who are Christians of the finest type; and I feel justly proud that many of these persons are my friends, using the word friend in the TRUE sense of that splendid word. Those ministers of Grenada, to whom I have listened, are men considerably above the average of intelligence, ability and sincerity generally to be found in the ministry throughout the United States and Canada.

However neither preachers or editors can influence men who have sold their birthrights "down the river." But the land that produced such God-fearing men as Jefferson Davis and Robert E. Lee, will produce other God-fearing men to lead the South out of its present threatening social and economic chaos and unrest.

The South is faced with a future more grave and more serious than the great majority of Southerners have any concept of. But there are men among the older generation who recognize the signs of times, and can discern the handwriting on the wall.

Among the younger men there must emerge leaders who are willing and eager to place the good of the South before personal profit and greed. Nothing short of the old Rebel Spirit will ever arouse the slumbering, crumbling South of today.

In one way, Whyte I already am a preacher—and this is my layman's gospel. I am devoted to the cause of creating forward looking and constructive minds in the South—of creating sound economic and social conditions—of creating progressive, public spirited citizens—and creating that rational optimism without which nothing really worth while can be achieved.

What might be expressed in the technical terms of sociology and economics is briefly summed up in this sentence. I believe with all my heart and mind that children have an inalienable right to be born into a happier, healthier and more prosperous civilization than the one which awaits them in the Southern States of our time.

With The H. D. Agent

By Mrs. Velma Neely

A district meeting of all colored home demonstration agents for Northwest District was held in Vera Sledge's office last Thursday. The purpose of the meeting was food preservation. Mrs. Mary Wood Clark, with the Kerr Glass Company—and who works in 30 states, conducted the demonstration, giving in detail modern methods of home canning. Actually canning soup mixture, tomatoes, and plain canned pears, including steps in canning other vegetables and fruits.

This was a fine opportunity for the colored agents, and we can see that they are rendering a wonderful service to their race of people in counties where colored agents are working.

Alice Oliver, District Agent, colored, of Jackson, and Beatrice Childress, club agent, of Jackson, were present. There were 32 colored home agents present.

Miss Maude Smith, Rural Electrification specialist of State College, gave a talk on correct lighting for food preservation. Mrs. Velma Neely, home agent, Mrs. E. L. Boteler, and Mrs. Bill Saunders were present. A series of these meetings with the colored agents are being held all over the State, Alice Oliver states.

Vera Sledge, colored agent held her county wide canning exhibit in the basement of the colored Methodist Church Sept. 13th, which she asked me to judge the exhibits, and the canning the colored people are doing in Grenada is a credit to any one. We just hope to see more colored people doing this fine piece of work, and help more to take care of their health than ever before.

NEWS OBTAINED ON LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON

his door, but he was probably taking a Sunday siesta.

No sign of life about the Whitten home.

Hardy, the cradle of the thriftiest folks of Grenada, is, like many of the smaller villages, definitely on the decline, though a few of its citizens take excellent care of their homes and premises. Their merchants were observing the Blue Laws Sunday afternoon.

Some of the folks of that part of the county are doing something about the cotton situation and about the labor situation by quitting cotton, fencing their lands and raising cattle of good breeding.

In that section, most of the land at one time was in cultivation. The owners, feeling that it was cheaper to clean up new land than to take care of the old, permitted most of the land to be ruined by erosion. The water-scarred hillsides of this section, like those of most Mississippi hill ections, constitute one of Mississippi's greatest tragedies—the waste of land.

Stopping at Chas. Ingram's store at the Gooch Lumber Co., mill, we found a clean, well-selected stock of goods, and apparently Charlie and wife are making progress.

Some especially good cotton was seen on what I know as the Judson Jennings place—think one of th Hayward boys owns it now.

Beyond Skuna River, we passed by the Martin "Squirrel Farm," where Hurd Horton and I used to spend some happy moments hunting and fishing.

On the Warner Horton home which is where the grandfather of Warner, Hurd, Cowles, Finley, etc., settled back in the 1830's and found Uncle Pink, Aunt America, "Miss" Lula, and the Cook boy, also the pet dogs at home.

—V—

During five days of maneuvers from Sept. 14th through the 18th the 31st Provisional Anti-Tank Battalion has proven its worth. The Tank is a very deadly weapon when it meets a weak defense. However, there is an antidote for everything and it seems that the War Department has an antidote for tanks attack in the formation of Anti-Tank battalions in each division. Heretofore Anti-Tank guns were under the control of regimental command, but now they are controlled by the division and can be shifted when and where they are needed. If a tank attack developed in a certain section of the front, enough guns can be placed there to stop it before great danger can be done. Let proof be submitted here: We captured 25 tanks, seven half track armored cars, 15 trucks, one scout car, four motor cars, 125 enlisted men and six officers; our losses were 27 enlisted men, two officers, four trucks and two guns.

See in the Shreveport Times where Leo (not the lion) Bird, was deferred by the draft board. It's nice to be a star football player, isn't it?

The last day of war, Sam Provine was neutralized by enemy tank as he had slipped closer than 150 feet to them and was spied by an unpire. On this particular day, our intelligence officer, First Lt. Williams, Provine and the writer went beyond the front lines searching for enemy tanks. Lo and behold we ran into a nest of them. Simulated war or not, it was very exciting to lay in bushes and watch 100 tanks pass by!! After they passed by our position, we followed them to their assembly point and then scurried back across the lines with a report of their location.

We don't claim to be "Hell on Wheels," however we can safely nick name the Thirty-first A. T. as "Hell on Tanks." When tanks are spotted, the trucks have to take it. The truck might not stay on the road half the time, but we get there on time, and time is an important factor in stopping a tank attack.

There's more ways of choking a cat than stuffing him on butter—as the old saying goes. Trucks were going down the road near our area like hell after a yearling, stirring up a cloud of dust. Sergeant Roy Lee Grantham got him a crew of men with shovels and dug deep ditches in the road. They either slowed down or are still sitting on pillows.

All of us welcomed the temporarly halt of hostilities Friday. After five days of continuous grind the men were pretty well all in.Dog tired and dirty, we spent our time resting and bathing in near-by creeks.

The soldiers are getting worlds of useful experience here in Louisiana. Learning to take care of one's self under conditions as near war as possible are being stressed. There's no babying you around, on maneuvers. You've gotta look after yourself and equipment for it's a cinch no one else will do it for you. When given a chance to rest we've learned to take it and conserve our energy. There is not much frolicking around during time off for it is used to catch up on lost sleep for you can never tell when you will be called on to go many hours without any shut-eye. The sun and moon is the only difference in the two 12:00 with us.

Moving at night under black out is one of the most dangerous things we have to master. Pencil size blue lights are the only signal a driver has that a vehicle is approaching. These lights are very, very dim, under ordinary conditions they can be seen 50 feet. Several have gone to their happy hunting ground in night accidents, that's to be expected. It would be suicide to drive into a position with headlights on. Enemy artillery and air planes would blow h—— out of an organization before they got their installations in.

Seen, Heard and Told By The Editor

One by one, the young men are being called to the colors. It is, of course, heartrending to the parents but, at least, they can be proud that they have reared boys who can stand the rigid physical examinations. No weaklings are needed, or taken. War is a bloody business.

Aint they sweet.

Brother Ellett Lawrence wrote a strong, sensible letter to the members of the Mississippi Legislature in the September issue of his house organ, PAGES.

I. O. Pearson must be haying as he bought a pitch fork down on Green Street Monday.

Beat 4 And Beat 5 Notes

(W. W. W.)

Marvin Mullen seems to have a lot of hogs, as usual.

Everywhere, one could find both the results of laziness and the results of industry. Usually the fellow who had a field filled with grass had no stove wood at home; his gates were askew, and his well need cleaning.

Wanted to stop by to see Mrs. Zac Taylor, but time pressed on us so much that we could not make that detour.

The Curle homestead overlooking Cane Creek looked spick and span.

Some of the best cotton seen was in the little bottom just South of Cane Creek bridge.

The rural telephone lines and the watch towers erected under Jim Shaw's management wgill be for a lon time memorials to his industry and tenancity.

In Holcomb, we saw a large number of our old friends and constituents.

The two gins there, both of them good ones, are about neck and neck in output of baled cotton.

Mose Simpon whom we saw but did not speak to looked natural checking out cotton for rail shipment.

Cousin Hortense certainly does look much improved since I saw her last. She had quite a spell.

Sis and Mattie Curry were in town that day doing their monthly trading. These elderly ladies have lived alone in the remote Hall old home 'way back in the hills until recently when their brother, Spencer Curry came back home. Spence is looking just like ne did ten years ago when I saw him last.

Our cousins, the Scruggs, from over the river were in Holcomb that day, and both looked well.

"Miss" Alice who helps Volney Nason in their store is as cheerful and kindly as usual.

"Foots" Clark was busy poring over the books in Fulton McRee's store.

Fisherman McRee must have been out looking for some poor buffalo to harpoon.

Arthur Williams upon whom we called was down at Parsons looking after some boll weevil cotton.

By the way did I mention that Dick Latham paid in six bits of his seed money, or money received from the sale of eggs. Anyway it was good money.

Dr. A. S. Hill, looking not a day older, paid in $1.50.

Pidd Bloodworth and wife appeared to have escaped the ravages of Father Time.

Nobody seemed to ask or care about the election.

Buford Latham was visiting in Holcomb.

Old Rias Perkins, who once "lived" with me, was richer by a cigar that I gave him.

Paul Hayden's store was quite busy, and I did not see the proprietor.

Married life seems to be agreeing with Dot Hayden, as he is getting fatter in spite of much hard work.

Sam Norris, always smiling and always accommodating, received some trade from me when I purchased a penny box of matches to keep this hellish pipe lighted until I got back home.

I understand that the folks there have about stopped playing bridge. I hope they have not, like myself, gone to playing poker "for keeps."

Following frequent admonitions contained in these columns, the Holcomb folks have not permitted Cousin Ed to overdo himself.

Jack McRee and wife certainly have a neat and pretty home which they built recently. Jack has a moustache.

I did not see Grandmaw Mary McRee.

Lum Butler, who had and related some very unpleasant illogical relations with the AAA, was at home when we stopped, and I am bound to say that, so far as my observation goes, Lum has made the greatest improvements made in Beat Five during the period of my 30-years observatiogn.

We stopped by to see Grandpaw and Grandmaw Joe Ward, who were waiting on Cousin Will Hoffa to send them some cotton sacks. Joe is one of those rare individuals who cannot be bothered. He came here with nothing, and will carry nothing away; and, in the meantime, he is not going to furrow his honest face with lines of care.

At Moore's Mill—the old name for Oxberry—Mr. and Mrs. Earl Staten appeared to be doing a fair business in their store, while Earl reported—as almost everyone reports—that he will make more cotton than he first expected. Of the large fields of cotton seen, Earl had the best seen in a 100-mile trip about Grenada County.

At Oxberry, I bought my old secretary—Sebe Clark, (col.) a cigar which he saved until Sunday to smoke.

Luther Harris was busy as usual bringing in the logs.

Oxberry seems strange without a cotton gin. Until a few years ago, when the Staten gin burned, there has always been a gin at Oxberry, even an ancient horse gin in the upper part of the Hoffa (now Earl Staten) field.

Speaking of that old horse gin reminds me that at the time it operated cottonseed were considered absolutely valueless, and were nuisances in disposing of. This horse gin has been out of operation over half a century, yet the spot where it stood still shows, by the luxurious growth of crops, the effects of the immense tonnage of cottonseed scattered nearby.

Uncle Nan seems to be looking better.

We drove up toward the free state but being scared to enter, turned around and retraced our "steps" to the Valley Hill and made the loop by John Emmons, Turkeyfoot Fork, Bethel, thence to the highway.

John must have been slopping his hogs for he was not seen, otherwise we would have stopped and felt his pulse.

I wonder who lives in the Carpenter old home. I did not recognize the people there, nor those at the Holland old home.

The brush arbor at the "Fork" has been replaced by a wooden structure.

In passing near the Huffman home, I could not but think of the recent tragedy that befell Mrs. Huffman's son, Claudius Cornelius.

The Bethel old church and the cemetery nearby look eerie in the dusk as we passed.

In passing there, we wondered if Mrs. Ben Harris was still living, and, if so, how she was getting along. The hour was too late to pause, tho we thought of her.

One has but to make a trip like I did and see the tumbledown houses, the rotting cribs, the shackly fences, the ill-kept churches and the general air of hopelessness and helplessness to realize that King Cotton, now propped on his shaking throne by artificial governmental panaceas, has led the country to the brink of ruin.

Yet there is hope in the situation. Many of the landowners have growing herds of cattle which graze on land once devoted to cotton. More mule colts are to be seen than in former years; more dairy cattle. But, what of the tenant and the share-cropper. His plight becomes worse and worse as time passes.

Vice-Mayor of Oxberry, Earl Stat-

Geared . . . to Serve the South

SYMBOLIC of Southern Bell's tremendous importance to the vital communication system of the South is its Seal—an emblem of proven service to industry and the public and now to defense. The national emergency is making unprecedented demands upon every resource at our disposal in men, women, materials and money. Recruits are daily swelling the ranks of our trained army of workers.

Our reserves of basic equipment are being taxed to the utmost to keep pace with the ever growing demands for more and more telephone service. The more than 51,000,000 dollars required this year for constructing, reconstructing and adapting telephone facilities to meet government and other telephone needs is being willingly invested to insure the expansion and protection of telephone service throughout the nine southeastern states we serve — Southern Bell is geared to serve the South.

Now that we are hearing much about morale, we may as well take stock of our own school spirit. To have a school that we can point to with respect, we must have a good school spirit existing here. By this we mean that everyone should cooperate with the customs and regulations of the school. One person can help a great deal to tear down the spirit by breaking rules, showing disrespect and by acting unruly in general. A person of this sort should not be laughed at, because if he sees he gets attention, he will misbehave again. If everyone does his or her part by considering the welfare of others, the school will be "tops".

THANKS—SENIORS OF '41

Grenada High School appreciates the fact that we have the newest kind of lighting system available—the flourescent system. These lights were the gift of the Senior Class of 1941, for many years prior to this one, Grenada High School has been inadequately illuminated with lights that were installed when the building was constructed in 1922. Althougt there have been a few improvements, they were far inferior to the system now used. Because of these lights are non-glarig they save the eyesight of many students. We know of no gift that could be more beneficial to a high school than this one that last year's graduating class presented. Since the present seniors came to high school in 1938, the most frequent complaints heard in Grenada High have been poor lights and the high light bill. These flourescent lights use less electricity and give a great deal more light than did the old ones.

Grenada High School has been transformed from the shadows into light! Again thanks to the seniors of 1941

CLASS OF '41

The graduates of the class of 1941 have already been scattered over a wide area. This week we will strive to give a list of those graduates who are now in college. Next week we'll give the "whereabouts" of the others.

Katy Carlisle, who took good care of the "Bulldog" last year, and our star basketball player, Camilla Smith, are attending school at Woods Junior College at Mathiston.

John "Poor" Keeton is blessing Ole Miss with his august presence. His crony, Filly Semmes, is at State. Brinker Thrower and Ed McCormick are also at State.

Thomas Bell, for four years president of his class, is at Milsaps.

At Sunflower Junior College are "Pap" Maracalco, "Ep" Smith, Chas. Kenwright, T. W. Goodwin and Bobby Weir.

Joyce Fleming and Betsy Ann Smith are Grenada's freshmen representatives at M. S. C. W.

Billy Townsend, one of last year's star debators, is studying at a technical schoo, in Indiana.

Though we miss these former school mates, we appreciate the contributions which they made to the school and wish them continued success.

FOOTBALL GAME CALLED OFF

The football game scheduled to be played Friday night, September 19, with Durant, was called off because Durant hasn't enough boys together to make a team. Coach Hathorn reported that he thought we had enough trouble but he feels much better now. The next game of the season will be with Batesville Friday night September 26. Everyone is invited to attend.

CHAPEL

Wednesday night Mr. Hathorn had charge of the program. After a song service led by Miss Donaldson, Bro. Wiley of the First Baptist Church led us in our devotional. Mr. Hathorn introduced Dr. Bob Clanton, the county health officer, who in turn introduced Dr. William Sodeman of Tulane University Medical School. Dr. Sodeman made a very interesting talk on vitamines.

G. R. NEWS

This year the G. H. S. Girl Reserves are looking forward to having a bigger and better Girl Reserve Club than ever before. The officers are: Mary L. Cullen, President; Louise Avent, Vice President; Lucy Moss, Secretary; Libba Horton, Treasurer; Winifred Saunders, Chairman; Berneice Jones, Membership Chairman; Margaret Spain, who replaces Jean Scott Burt, as Social Chairman; Caroline Whitaker, the Song Leader, Miss Mary Haynes is the Sponsor.

The triangle leaders are Lucy Moss, Mary Lib Horton, Caroline Whitaker, and Berneice Jones, with Margaret Spain as assistant.

At the opening meeting Thursday, a play was given to illustrate for the new members the G. R. initials.

In the absence of the president, Mary Lou Cullen, Louise Avent presided.

At the close of the program Girl Reserve songs were sung.

CENSUS

We decided to take a census on the subject, "What Subject Do You Like Best?" We got the following results:

Mary Lou Cullen, Algebra 2; Frances Herring, Algebra 2; Leon Provine, Physics; Will Horton, Bookkeeping; Floyd Theisman, Government; Louise Avent, Physics; Dot Talbert, Typing; Anne Odom, Government; Jay Gore, Algebra 2; Benton Keeton, English 2; Mary Lib Horton, Shorthand; Lil York, "I like them all". Jackie Lane, Home Economics 2; Jack Calk, (He did not answer)

"THE STYLE HIT PARADE"

More cute clothes around school! It seems that each girl and boy is trying to look "snappier" than the next one.

These macaroni beads (positively not to be eaten at a hungry moment) seem to be the things to wear. Have you noticed Libba Horton's red, white and blue ones that came from California?

Although 'tis not the newest thing, the G. R. uniforms certainly did look pretty Thursday. Did you see Catherine Jones' white silk dress with the blue silk triangle? This ought to inspire more G. R.'s to dress up that way. (This ad free for Girl Reserves.)

Speaking of footwear, Louise Avent's new brown shoes take the cake. They are brown leather with a built-up thick rubber sole. (P. S. She keeps them looking nice by using a little polish once in a while. So many of us wouldn't understand.)

All the boys are wearing shirts known as the "your shirt tail is sticking out" type. They all wear them from James Thomas down to "Freshie" Granberry.

Have you seen Ruth Lee Morrow's skirt that is made of five bandana handkerchiefs? When she wears it with a white "fluffy" blouse it really is cute.

Mary Lou Cullen's printed sheeun dress isn't bad on the eyes. When she wears beads and a ribbon to match it's really a "swanky" outfit. Her sister, Beebe, looked mighty nice in her white pique dress and pink beads.

G. H. S. DIRT

Lil's newest, a boy from Calhoun City, goes by the name of "Little". He almost broke up a bridge game the other night calling her over the phone.

Poor Munford Rhett! He got his collar bone broken playing football. We sincerely hope he gets better.

Wonder what it is Fred Hodges is black mailing Jay Gore about? From what we hear it must be awful.

Anne Duncan got back to school a week or two late. She's been to Baltimore.

Girls who eagerly await the postman are Louise Avent, Lil York and Pet Edwards.

The seniors who've been seeing running around mumbling something are really harmless. They are probably reciting their debates to themselves and they are harmless.

We can't vouch for Leon Provine.

The Biology girls are feeding poor little grasshoppers up this week. Poor bugs!!

Notice to all students! If you want to have a bigger dirt column, please do something so we can have something to write about.

After riding the merry-go-round at the circus, Dot Talbert remained dizzy for several days after.

We are completely at a loss this year as we don't have John Keeton to pick on.

Teddie Revell threw a weenie roast at his "shack" last Saturday night. Beebe Cullen was with Buddie Avent at this gala occasion. Everyone was a victim of too much food.

FloydTheisman and Benton Keeton did away with the freedom of speech in English Thursday or details as either of them. Incidentally, they sounded like a hundred percent debating team.

From the looks of things in the typing class, Nellie and Robert must have something up.

In general there is a fair crop on the John Nason place.

Brother Frank Lawrence missed a caller for he was not sitting on the front porch. He probably was on haying or doing some other work, as he should have been.

Had a short, but pleasant visit with Mr. J. M. Pierce, a venerable friend of long standing. I expect he will use his old car another year, not that he is lacking funds to buy a new one.

Dick Latham reported that, while the cotton crop was short, he had plenty of milk cows, chickens, fattening hogs, and canned stuff, and that he could live another year anyway. Dick works and uses his head for other purposes than a hat rack.

MISSISSIPPI LABOR LEADER

Says

"...the Beer Industry is the friend of the working man."

Mr. Lewis Spann, President of the Jackson Central Labor Union, in a recent comment about the work of the Brewers and Mississippi Beer Distributors Committee, said:

"Men and women—eleven thousand of them, are employed daily by the 1900 licensed retailers and the 46 licensed wholesalers who comprise Mississippi's Beer Industry. This is proof enough that the Beer Industry is the friend of the working man.

"These men and women receive $6,920,000.00 annually in payroll and they spend this money in Mississippi with Mississippians. In addition, the Beer Industry pays $1,090,234.14 each year in excise, gasoline, ad valorem and privilege taxes in Mississippi and spends thousands of dollars for rent, gasoline, hardwood for barrels and for miscellaneous supplies.

"In offices, warehouses, on delivery trucks and in retail establishments, these 11,000 men and women, through the clean-up or close-up program of your Committee, are selling a WHOLESOME beverage of moderation in increasingly WHOLESOME surroundings."

Through the cooperation of men like Mr. Spann, the thinking public and law-enforcement officials, Beer—the beverage of moderation—is available to you in clean, respectable surroundings and the honest jobs of more than 11,000 Mississippi men and women are thereby protected.

You can help protect these important benefits by patronizing only the WHOLESOME, law-abiding retail beer outlets in your community.

Only in AMERICA

The American Way of Life means everything to the farmer. Under our Democratic government the American farmer today enjoys freedom unknown in any other country in the world. ONLY IN AMERICA can he still plant his own crops, improve his soil, build up his dairy or beef herds, grind his own roughage and enjoy, year-by-year, the fruits of his labor, without regimentation. His family, too, shares his benefits. Educational facilities are available to his children — newspapers and radio keep him in touch with every corner of the world — good roads have shortened the distance between his home and trading center. Our farmers are the backbone of our nation and are among those who value The American Way of Life most highly.

This company and its employees are glad that modern Mississippi Power & Light Company cheap electricity — on the farm, as well as in home, store, office, and factory — gives you more time to help maintain our American Way of Life.

Spring Hill Church looked neat and pretty in its new coat of white paint.

I paused at Nasons to pick up the two singletrees that Brother Lester borrowed about seven years ago, but he was not at home, probably out after a yearling.

Three or four attended the Greenfield-Perry dance Friday night. May be folks are not in a dancing mood.

So many have paid their subscriptions in the last few weeks that we may never get to some of them.

Prich Horton is grading a detour around the site of the new No. Eight highway overhead bridge, and this will be most helpful both to the traveling public and those immediately across Bogue.

Our friend, Biglane, former night clerk at the Barwin has united with Uncle Sam's army, and Mr. Waldrup has taken Mr. Biglane's place. Both are excellent gentlemen.

Mr. Greenfield took Jewish New Year Monday, but we will get even if we live to see OUR Christmas.

BEAT FOUR AND FIVE NOTES

en, Jr., enjoyed a two-weeks stay in Washington visting in the home of his uncle "Baby Bud" Staten during the summer.

In traveling over this county and in seeing the immense acreage once cultivated, now in gullies and pine bushes, one can quickly see why the production of crops have declined in Grenada county. The farmers have literally been driven down to the little level places in the branch bottoms, and they seldom cultivate the once fertile hill slopes.

One of the main troubles with our county and our country is the laziness and the shiftlessness of many of our people—a vast majority—some of whom would not hit a snake if the snake were about to strike. With work, this county could be made to blossom like the proverbial rose; but, so long as benevolent Uncle Sam maintains commodity houses, and long WPA rolls and such things, we need not expect Grenada county, or any other rural county to "come back." Stark necessity is the only spur that will prod the people from their present status of shiftlessness. Root hog or die, or work or starve, are the axioms that will gbring renewed activity to our sorry people. So long as they, like Elijah, are fed by the ravens (WPA, PWA, CCC, ETC.), just so long will they sit with mouths aajr.

Farmers every where complain that they cannot get sufficient labor, that they cannot compete with Uncle Sam. We cannot blame the individual who naturally prefer to earn $2.00 in eight hours to earning $1.00 for twelve hours; we blame the system that made this possible.

Kimbrough Durham whom we saw at Oxberry seems to be getting along all right, as he is fattening rightt a long.

Speaking of Collins, I heard that Jimmie Arrington's prayers for a boy were not answered. It was a girl. Jimmie is not living right.

Well, I guess Mike Conner now sees that I was right about this election.

Don't know which Homer Williams was the most proud of: his brandbaby or Grenada County's heavy vote for Doxey.
